

Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine

Honesty Statement

Stritch School of Medicine students are expected to assume personal responsibility and maintain personal integrity in all aspects of their education.

In order to foster this behavior, all online examinations carry an electronic footprint of the actions by the student, and instances of academic dishonesty are subject to the sanctions defined within our academic policy manual.

Academic dishonesty during an examination includes, but is not limited to:

- Obtaining or attempting to obtain an examination prior to its administration.
- Referring to devices, materials, online sources or leaving the exam testing environment to enter the internet.
- Receiving or providing assistance from another person; taking an examination for another person; or attempting to obtain another person to take one's own examination.
- Being disruptive during an examination so as to infringe on the rights of other students.
- Leaving the examination room without the permission of the proctor.

By beginning this examination, I have acknowledged my understanding and acceptance of the above statement and its consequences.