

MHD II, Session IV

Correlative Lecture Objectives

MHD

Describe the histologic reaction of liver in response to injury (patterns of hepatic injury).

Describe the histologic findings classically seen in alcoholic hepatitis.

Know the important synthetic functions of the liver and the corresponding abnormal laboratory findings. Also be aware of laboratory tests that help in assessment of liver injury and function (ie; AST, ALT, PT, albumin, ect)

Describe the pathophysiology of abdominal pain

Emphasize the importance of an accurate history and thorough physical examination in the evaluation of pts. with abdominal pain

Recognize GI tract pain patterns and common GI disorders that present with abdominal pain

To appreciate malabsorption disorders and how they present in clinical medicine

Describe the different chronic myeloproliferative diseases.

Describe clinical and pathological features common to all myeloproliferative diseases

Describe how PV differs from reactive causes of polycythemia

Correlative topics in First Aid for USMLE I 2011

p. 331

p.332

p.333

p.334

p.335

p.361

p.392